Activity: Meri Maati Mera Desh: Amrutha Vatika Mega Plantation Programme

Date: 11/08/2023

Venue: Vengalayapalem Nagaravanam Biodiversity Conservation Centre maintained by the Forest Department

Number of Volunteers or Students Participated: 100 students

Other Attendees: 4 NSS members, ITC MSK FINISH Society staff, Forest Department staff

Objectives:

- To contribute to environmental conservation and biodiversity preservation through mass plantation of indigenous plants.
- To raise awareness among students and the community about the importance of afforestation in combating climate change.
- To promote community engagement and collaboration with NGOs and government departments for sustainable development.

Brief Description of the Activity:

The NSS Units 1, 2, 3, and 4 of GCW(A), Guntur, organized the "Meri Maati Mera Desh: Amrutha Vatika Mega Plantation Programme" in collaboration with the NGO ITC MSK FINISH SOCIETY. The event took place at the Vengalayapalem Nagaravanam Biodiversity Conservation Centre, which is maintained by the Forest Department.

The programme commenced with an inaugural ceremony, during which representatives from the NSS units, ITC MSK FINISH SOCIETY, and the Forest Department delivered speeches emphasizing the significance of afforestation in preserving biodiversity and mitigating climate change.

Following the ceremony, all participants actively engaged in the plantation activity. Indigenous plant species, carefully selected in consultation with the Forest Department for their ecological suitability, were planted across designated areas within the conservation centre. The plantation process was conducted under the guidance of Forest Department staff and experienced volunteers.

Outcomes:

1. Successful plantation of a significant number of indigenous plants, contributing to the expansion of green cover and biodiversity enhancement in the Vengalayapalem Nagaravanam Biodiversity Conservation Centre.
2. Increased awareness among students and community members about the importance of afforestation and environmental conservation.
3. Strengthened collaboration between NSS units, NGOs, and government departments for sustainable development initiatives.
4. Encouraged active participation and engagement of students in community service activities aimed at addressing environmental challenges.
5. Received positive feedback from participants and stakeholders, indicating the effectiveness of the programme in achieving its objectives.

Govt. College for women, A, in Guntur Town, NSS UNITS - 1,2,3 and 4 Organised the battle against HIV/AIDS is not fought by one, but by a collective force comprising NSS Voluteers, Four Programme Officers, college staff and students, government officials, health and legal department personnel, and the esteemed District Additional and Sessions Judge, Mrs. Neelima Garu. This collaborative effort underscores the community's dedication to combatting the epidemic.

The National Service Scheme (NSS) Voluteers from various colleges in Guntur Town play a pivotal role in raising awareness about HIV/AIDS among their peers and the wider community. Through educational campaigns, workshops, and outreach programs, they strive to dispel myths, promote safe practices, and encourage regular testing.

The involvement of college staff and students further strengthens the AIDS programme. By integrating HIV/AIDS education into the curriculum and fostering a culture of acceptance and support, colleges contribute significantly to prevention and support efforts.

Government officials, including those from the health and legal departments, provide essential resources and support for HIV/AIDS initiatives. From funding treatment programs to implementing legal protections for affected individuals, their contributions are vital in creating an enabling environment for effective intervention.

At the forefront of this unified effort is the esteemed District Additional and Sessions Judge, Mrs. Neelima Garu. Her advocacy for the rights of people living with HIV/AIDS, coupled with her commitment to ensuring access to justice and fair treatment, sets a powerful example for the community.

Together, these stakeholders form a formidable alliance in the fight against HIV/AIDS in Guntur Town. Through their combined efforts, they not only aim to reduce the incidence of new infections but also to create a society where those affected by the virus are treated with dignity, compassion, and respect.

Outcomes to Programme:

- ◆ Following the event, there is a noticeable increase in awareness about HIV/AIDS among students, faculty, and the wider community.
- ◆ Attendees leave with a clearer understanding of transmission, prevention, and treatment options, dispelling myths and misconceptions surrounding the virus. This heightened awareness fosters a more informed and compassionate society, where individuals are equipped to support those affected by HIV/AIDS.
- ◆ The interactive sessions, workshops, and educational materials lead to tangible behavioral changes among attendees. Participants are empowered to adopt safer practices, such as consistent condom use, regular testing, and stigma reduction.
- ◆ The event serves as a vital platform for connecting individuals affected by HIV/AIDS with much-needed support and resources. Representatives from medical and health departments, as well as NGOs specializing in HIV/AIDS support, offer counseling, testing services, and information about available healthcare resources.
- ◆ Overall, the outcomes of the International AIDS Day event at Government College for Women, Guntur, underscore its significant contribution to HIV/AIDS awareness, prevention, and support efforts in the community.
